WEDDINGS.

McCLARE-RIDEOUT.

That was a pretty wedding witnessed by many relatives and friends, on Wednesday evening, occurring at the home of the bride, No. 9 Brantwood road, at which time Miss Coral McClare, and Malcolm Rideout, Jr., of Cambridge, were married by the Rev. Dr. Watson, pastor of the Baptist church. The best man was Earl Rideout, brother of the groom; Maid of honor, Thora McClare, sister of the bride. Ushers were Howard Farewell and George Campbell, both of Cambridge. The bride was gowned in mousseline de soie with point d'esprit lace with train. She wore a veil of brussels net, fastened with lilies-of-the-valley, carrying a bouquet of brides' roses. The beautiful pearl brooch was a gift from the groom. The maid of honor was dressed in white organdie, carrying a bunch of Jacquemont roses.

The house was tastefully decorated by the florist, Harold Frost, with palms, ferns and smilax festooned. There were one hundred and fifty guests invited to the reception, among whom there were present Mr. and Mrs. E. Nelson Blake, Dr. and Mrs. S. Wyer, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Watson of Arlington; while from out of town there were Congressman and Mrs. S. W. McCall, the Hon. Mr. Rideout of Cambridge, Major Dyer of Boston, Mr. Drysdale of North Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Appleton from Saugus, and Mrs. Freeman, sister of the bride, from Nova Scotia.

The presents were many and beautiful, consisting of silver, cut glass, china, bric-a-brac, etc. Caterer Hardy furnished the spread which was elegantly laid and served. The newly married pair, Mr. and Mrs. Rideout, are to take an extended wedding trip, returning the 1st of September. They are to make their home in Washington, D. C. Mr. Rideout is Congressman McCall's private secretary.

CLOUGH-PAGE.

Miss Rosina R. Clough, eldest daughter of Mr. B. F. Clough, was married to Mr. Ralph L. Page, of Somerville, on Wednesday evening, at their residence on Walnut street, Arlington, Rev. Dr. Watson officiating. Only the immediate members of the family were present at the ceremony. The wedding reception was held at the future residence of the bridal pair, 140 Lowell st., Somerville, and was quite largely attended by guests from Boston, Charlestown, Somerville and Arlington. Young lady ushers did the honors with effective grace. Delicious refreshments were served, Misses Alice Johnson and Mina Shirley dispensing frappe. The occasion was charmingly social and enjoyable, almost all of the guests being young people. We noticed among them Rev. Dr. Watson, Representative J. H. Crosby and Mrs. Crosby, Mr. J. Freeman Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Gregory, Mr. Elbridge Sawyer, Miss Blanche Sawyer and Miss Georgianna Sawyer, Misses Carrie and Addie Fillebrown, Misses Etta and Flora Fessenden, Miss Edith Frost, Miss Sophia Freeman, Miss Helen H. Learned, Mr. Herbert Cox, and many other well known Arlington faces. Many pretty and valuable presents were displayed, silver predominating.

RYAN-DALE.

On Wednesday evening, Mr. David T. Dale and Miss Agnes J. Ryan, were married by the Rev. J. M. Mulcahy at the parish house. All plans for a brilliant wedding had been abandoned owing to the death of Miss Ryan's sister some two months ago. After the marriage ceremony, the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride on Mt. Vernon street, where a reception was held, only the immediate relatives and friends being present. The bride was attired in white satin, with tulle veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried bride roses. Miss Mary A. Hayes was bridesmaid, and Mr. John Dale, a brother of the groom acted as best man. The house was prettily decorated with choice flowers, and Caterer Hardy furnished the wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Dale will spend their honeymoon at the Weirs, N. H., and upon their return to Arlington, will reside at the Alice, on Medford st. Mr. Dale is the eldest son of Mrs. Margaret Dale, of Medford st., while Miss Ryan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Ryan, of Mt. Vernon street. Both have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future.

Mrs. Addie Berry, of San Francisco, Cal., is visiting her niece Mrs. A. S. Harriman of 701 Mass. avenue.

The A. A. B. and W. A. B. played a game of ball last Saturday, the Arlington boys winning by a score of 9 to 2. Today they play at Woburn.

MEMORY OF THE DEAD.

BETHEL LODGE PLACES FLOWERS ON THE GRAVES OF BROTHERS—ADDRESS AT LODGE ROOM BY REV. W. F. POTTER.

Last Sunday proved to be very unpleasant for the memorial services of Bethel Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F. at Mt. Pleasant cemetery. But the rain did not prevent a large number of the members from turning out and paying tribute to their departed brothers.

It was the second memorial day of this lodge, this pleasant yet sad duty having been inaugurated last year and the rain then caused a postponement.

Early in the morning the flower committee met at the hall to receive such donations as should be brought in to be used for decorating. The committee were agreeably surprised as the floral display was a beautiful one, many choice bouquets being noticeable.

In the absence of Noble Grand Herbert H. Clark, Past Grand Charles W. Bunker called the brothers to order, and in a few pleasant words asked Past Grand George H. Rugg to act as noble grand for the day. Brother Rugg, after assuming the duties of this office made his well-chosen remarks brief and appointed Brother J. S. Richardson as marshal, after which he detailed Bros. Charles T. Hartwell, J. Fred McLeod and J. Fred Bitzer, Jr. to decorate the graves in the Pleasant street cemetery.

About three o'clock the line was formed and the march taken up to Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Upon arriving at the cemetery a hollow square was formed with the officers on the right of square. Brother Rugg's remarks at the cemetery were very appropriate. Rev. William F. Potter of Boston offered the invocation and a quartette composed of Misses Annabel Parker, Mabel R. Bennett, Messrs. George M. Fowle, Howard L. Bennett, sang in a manner very acceptably. Bro. Richardson then formed details of eight and the graves of all deceased Odd Fellows, whether a former member of Bethel lodge or no, were decorated.

Quite a few members of the Ida F. Butler Rebekah lodge as well as a large number of citizens assembled at the cemetery to witness the exercises, but owing to the rain it was decided to hold them in the hall.

Many friends and citizens had assembled in the hall so that there was quite an assemblage. Past Grand Rugg in a few pleasant and timely remarks introduced the Rev. Mr. Potter, who in his introductory remarks said he felt at home again for he was made an Odd Fellow in Bethel lodge 23 years ago in the present lodge room, and that he had come here this afternoon to feel at home again and to mingle with brothers whom he had a fond and high esteem. He took for his text these words

"He being dead, yet speaketh." Heb. XI: 4. It is the universal desire of man to be remembered after he has passed from the scenes of this earth life. There is no thought connected with the dissolution of soul and body more horrible than that with the life of the body shall end the memory of its deeds, and the fear that in a few short years we shall be forgotten, contributes not a little for our desire for long life and intensifies our clinging to this earth even after sickness and the infirmities of old age may have made life itself almost a burden.

So it happens, that connection with death no thought is more consoling, no assurance more sweet than this implied in the words of the apostle, "He being dead yet speaketh," that in a way by which our name may live, the record of our lives be handed down from one generation to another.

The history of the ages of nations and individuals from the very beginning shows that men everywhere have made attempts to perpetuate the memory of their lives. As far back as the history of the human race extends we have accounts of monuments being erected for the purpose of memorializing events in national and individual life. Those occurrences which have made the history of the Hebrew nation such as it may well be styled, "God's chosen and peculiar people," each has its memorial in piles of stone or pillars, erected by those who had active part in the history of the nation. The covenant between Laban and Jacob, the crossing of the Jordan,

And now I wish to tell a story. It is related by a noted French writer that it was his purpose late in life to, after he had his companion of his youth, to raise over her remains an imposing monument. During many months he dreamed of the combined structure of bronze and marble he would erect in the village cemetery. How many calculations were completed, what efforts made to increase his savings month by month, what satisfaction of wearing coarser garments for further savings. At length the necessary sum was obtained and he went to the cemetery to carry out and complete arrangements. On his way he met two little girls with a half-filled watering pot, watering for breath. He asked "where are you going?" they replied "down to father's grave which we have planted with flowers, and we have to carry it a long way, for in a short time the well will dry up and flowers die." Dear children, thought the writer, with the price of the stately monument I might obtain enough moisture to flow to refresh these faded graves; and ere long a spring was found and the waters flowed beneath the trees in the cemetery.

And this is what Odd Fellowship teaches—friendship, love and truth, the three links which all that is noble and good. As the roll was read a procession of names came before me, when the lodge was not large, such as Clark, Howe, Kirsch, many were co-workers in my church, Odd Fellowship meant something to them. Another name I recall, and the ladies have named their society after her, the name of Ida F. Butler, no purer and more noble woman ever lived; an incessant worker in the church and Sunday school, she was a loving spirit and was befitting true womanhood. Long may her endearing name live. The tributes we have placed on graves of loved ones will give cause for greater and fuller thought, and these deeds lovingly performed, will make us better men and women. What better inscription could be placed over us than F. L. & T. and that he was a faithful Odd Fellow while living, faithfully sustaining the principles of friendship, love and truth.

After a selection from the quartette, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Potter, Past Grand Rugg dismissed the audience.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

There isn't a boy in all Arlington, or elsewhere for that matter, in this "land of the free, and the home of the brave," who is not keenly alive to the fact that Tuesday of next week ushers in "the glorious Fourth." The patriotism of young America bubbles over at least once a year. It is on the Fourth of July in each recurring year that we all feel, young and old alike, that we have the right to shoot our biggest guns, and do our biggest bragging. The average Englishman, brother though he is, must take a back seat and keep himself a good deal shady on this most American of American days, for the day is no other than the anniversary of American Independence. Bunker Hill, Lexington, Saratoga and Bennington are all exclamation points to our English friends, in that immortal declaration of our rights. The coming Fourth should prove another italic in our bill of rights. Let us celebrate with a vim. Let the American eagle screech her loudest.

HOW ABOUT THE CHILDREN?

How about the children during these long weeks of the summer vacation? is a question that may well be asked by every father and mother in Arlington. When the boys and girls are let loose from school, then it is that parents come to realize something of the work of the teacher. We have known mothers more or less frequently, to grow impatient over the care of three or four boys and girls who were persistent in their childish plays; who could not resist the temptation of playing leap frog in the best room in the house, who wanted, and did, and still do disarrange all the furniture in the sitting room; who will in spite of the declaration that George Washington never told a lie, climb at this season of the year the best cherry tree in the yard, and pick and eat its most luscious fruit, and then deny all knowledge of what they have done. The children are inventive, so much so that what they cannot originate and study out, is hardly worth the trying. We are heartily glad that the boys and girls are not those perfect, angelic creatures who invariably die young. It is a healthful sign, that the children have a certain amount of fun-loving mischief in their make-up. Now it is the parents' business to so regulate all this, that boys and girls will come up all the better men and women, for the very reason that they were up to all sorts of tricks when they were young. This long vacation should be wisely planned for them. They should have amusements to their heart's content; and situated as Arlington is, near the metropolis and in near neighborhood to the shore, there is afforded an unlimited opportunity to them for pleasure and instruction combined. Do not fail to allow the little folks ample play time never forgetting that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Still the boy and girl of average school age should have a portion of the day set apart for work. Let the boy have a corner of the garden all his own. He will take a personal pride in watching the growth of whatever he may have planted. It was only the other morning that we heard a young lad of nine or ten years of age, invite his father with no little pride, into his garden to see his cucumbers and tomatoes. And the girls can be made useful about the house, in assisting in some small way the mother in her manifold duties. Let the children have some useful employment adapted to their years, for a small fraction of each day of the vacation, and then will they enjoy their playtime all the better. These ten weeks of vacation should be so arranged for the pupils in our public schools, that no mother would be heard to exclaim over and over again "I shall be so glad when school begins again."

LIVE MEN.

Real live men are just what the world most needs today, in every department of business and professional life. You drones and sticks have by right no place in any nook or corner of all God's world; and yet, unfortunately, we have these dead-heads and mopes all about us. We have them in the school, in the church, in the legal profession and wherever else there is a call for pluck and push. We not infrequently get out of all patience in meeting men so slow of movement that it is with the greatest possible difficulty that you can determine that they move at all. It is a singular fact and surprising withal, that so many people receive positive credit for what they don't know. We have now in mind a man (thank God that he doesn't live in Arlington) who is connected with the public schools, and yet so absolutely lethargic, that you become dull and sleepy the moment you come into his presence. Because he possesses a certain kind of negative dignity born of his dreamy condition, it is supposed by some that he is therefore profound in all educational matters, when the truth is that he is so dull of comprehension that he doesn't appreciate the situation, and so says little or nothing. Such men as these too frequently get into the pulpit to do nothing other than crucify sensible people. And the same are found in the law, and we are ashamed to say, in the field of journalism. Give us men who have some snap to them. It doesn't matter that they occasionally break things. Better this, than to infuse inactivity and death into everything upon which these lifeless souls breathe their lazily expiring breath. We have a liking for that enthusiasm which sets things on fire. One of the excellent features of an old fashioned Methodist revival is that it makes itself heard. Your real Methodist when he prays, means business. However much we may disbelieve in this methodistic way of begetting pure and undefiled religion in the hearts of its hearers, still there is this virtue about it, that it manifests life. We know of men and women who need an electrical current running through their intellectual make-up all the while. These slow coaches came into the world more dead than alive. The physician attending them at the time of their birth, failed somehow to shake them up so vigorously as to have them catch a good, full breath, and, unfortunately for them, they never caught one since. So they live on without taking in a requisite amount of ozone.

The world needs your live men. No matter if they set each other by the ears. Better take the kingdom of heaven by violence, than not take it at all. We have a profound respect for the man who has "sand" in his composition, while we hold him in contempt who only thinks "under stress of circumstances."

"PLEASE DON'T."

"Please don't mention my name in your paper, for I am naturally sensitive and modest, and do so dislike to be made prominent!"—Dear man and woman never be guilty again of such a foolish and ridiculous statement. You do love to have all sorts of good things said of you, and you dearly love to have your name appear in published form in the weekly newspaper. And all this is a virtue, for "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold." We know how it is ourselves, for we are not so old that we do not enjoy a pleasant word in good readable type in print; and so do you, dear friend. It is quite amazing how much taffy even, the most of us can stand. We take and hug to ourselves the excessively complimentary word, when we well know we do not deserve it. Where is the man or woman whom you have ever made your enemy, by "piling on," as they term it? The majority of mankind derive much satisfaction in estimating the almost infinite loss the world would have sustained had it not been for their individual existence. And all this is well—this is just what makes life not only endurable but a continuous pleasure. Allowing ourselves to be the judges, we are all at "the top of the heap." It is the "other fellow" who does not distinguish himself in this or that department of life—not we. The late Dr. Holland has somewhere said in his essays, that "the barber who takes the classic nose of the Rev. D. D. between his thumb and finger, as he makes smooth his face, knows just what to say that he may draw forth from the learned divine an extra sixpence." We are all in the same boat so far as "taffy" is concerned. We all love it, and "roll it as a sweet morsel under our tongue." Let us own up to the truth, and confess at once that we dearly love to be glorified. You know as well as we do, that you are not vexed when you see your name in public print, in a way altogether commendable of you. When one says to us, "please be so kind as not to mention it in your paper," then it is that we feel warranted in giving him or her our best rhetoric, in the most conspicuous corner of the column. We do not question that we have enemies—indeed we know we have them—but we are confident we never made them by speaking pleasant words of them, or publishing their names in the weekly journal. Enemies are not made that way.

"HE IS SUPERSTITIOUS."

The above is what we all declare of a man who is not willing to be one of thirteen at a dinner party, or who will sit up all night rather than repose his weary limbs in room 13. But the fact is, we are all more or less superstitious. Show us the man who will not put himself to so little inconvenience, to right-about-face, that he may see the new moon over his right shoulder. We, and so have you, dear reader, more than once left our comfortable seat in the sitting room, and making straight for the outside door, put ourselves in position, facing the south with our right shoulder to the west, before we dared look at the new, queenly orb of night. We all shudder more or less to hear the cock crowing at dead of night, and we have seen the pet of the household breathing her last, as the dog howled when the darkness shut down. Superstition enters largely into the make-up of mankind. Voltaire, Oliver Cromwell, Napoleon, Robespierre, and a host of other great thinkers, have at times been made miserable by imaginary ghosts arising from graves nowhere to be found. It is said that Pres. Lincoln, just before his assassination, saw himself in unnatural and deathly form, as he gazed upon his reflected self through the mirror. Deny it as we may, and then does it remain true that we all have our bugbears and hobgoblins staring us at times full in the face, before which we pale and grow faint at heart. The average man is so credulous that it is the easiest matter in the world to impose upon him in the most ridiculous manner. Take for instance the so-called "Miller doctrine!" What fools it made of otherwise sensible men. The saying in the forties was, "if the world stands" we shall do so and so. An army of men and women had their ascension robes made so that they might answer the first blast of Gabriel's trumpet. In those days we were a youngster up in New Hampshire, and never shall we forget the anxious expectancy of the people in that locality. To say that with our nervous temperament we felt at times a good deal uneasy, is putting the case mildly. What boy wouldn't have been uneasy and miserably wretched, expecting to hear at any moment the "crack of doom!"

We need to admit the fact that naturally we are all more or less superstitious, so that in our homes and in our public schools we should educate the children in all sensible things. Have them if need be, see the moon over the left shoulder, and see to it, that 13 makes up their afternoon party. Impress upon them in every way possible, that there is nothing supernatural in all the wide world; that God works by natural laws, and never does He do things without letting follow the explanation. Those things which we cannot readily explain, are just those things God doesn't do. We assign to Providence much for which it is not responsible. We have a reasonable as well as a loving Father, so we may be very sure that He will not blind our eyes with mysteries and guesses. Everything is all right. We men and women muddle things. We cry out "there is a lion in the way," when there is nothing ahead to impede our onward progress. Let us be sensible in spite of the dog howl and the cock crowing at midnight. Don't fret yourself because you have upset the salt, and seen the new moon over your left shoulder. Be a man, and never tell of signs and wonders in the presence of your children.

A FUNDAMENTAL MISTAKE.

Mrs. Eddy and every other christian scientist makes a fundamental mistake in declaring that while God is good, all things material are an error. The last statement contradicts and sets at naught the first statement; for if God is good, then His material works cannot be an error.

"UNIQUE LONG ISLAND."

"Unique Long Island" gotten out by H. B. Fullerton, special agent of the passenger department of the Long Island railroad, is Long Island in pictured and attractive form. The cuts showing the different localities on the island are admirably executed. It would be difficult for the tourist to find a more charming spot of earth than is all Long Island from the East river to Montauk Point. With roads unsurpassed the wheelmen have it all their own way. With the copy of "Unique Long Island" just received, comes a copy of "Cyclists Paradise," showing the magnificent roads, and the excellent hotels along the way.

Mr. H. B. Fullerton, a man alive all over and all through, has made over anew the roads of Long Island, so that to day that locality is especially distinguished for its highways. Long Island is to the front in all things.

We were present for a brief while on Tuesday morning, at the closing exercises of the Winchester High and Grammar schools. These exercises were held in the Town Hall, a building of which Winchester may well feel proud. The high school class graduated 26. The programme selected with so much taste, was admirably rendered. Prof. Paul H. Hanus, of Harvard University gave an address appropriate to the hour.

DUDLEY LEAVITT AND HIS ALMANAC.

Mrs. P. A. Prescott of Deerfield, N. H. at the ripe age of 88 years has recently been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gage of Jason Street. She relates with great clearness many interesting reminiscences of her early life. Among the pleasantest recollections of her girlhood days, way back in the teens of the century now closing, are those of her experience for several terms under the schoolmastership of that celebrated scholar, teacher, and astronomer, Dudley Leavitt, known by fame for nearly a century to every son and daughter of New Hampshire as the author of Leavitt's Farmer's Almanac. Leavitt was born at Exeter, N. H. May 23, 1772. He was an intense student until the hour of his death, and in the main, a self-made man and scholar. His favorite branches were mathematics and astronomy. He was the author of several school text books, and was a lifelong teacher. He taught his last term in 1846 when 74 years old. Mrs. Prescott says of him, "In some things he was very peculiar and somewhat eccentric. He was very polite and insisted on politeness from his pupils. He set the example by always tipping his hat and bowing to every one he met. He was rather an austere disciplinarian, especially so to small children for whom he was less well fitted than for adults. For anything, in school or out, that in any way was not strictly up to his mark, one ought to have seen his keen eyes snap to appreciate it. It seemed to have been his meat and drink to teach astronomy and mathematics." His abode was about two miles from Meredith village and about one mile from the main road on a "cross-road." The building was termed in those days a "one-room" building. That is, there was but one room on the first floor and one chamber room above which was reached, not by stairs, but by a ladder. Here I transcribe a portion of a letter recently received by Mrs. Prescott from a granddaughter of Mr. Leavitt:

I want to tell you an anecdote about grandfather that Ebenezer Young, who kept the hotel in Meredith in the forties, loved to relate. M. Alexandre Vattemare, to whom was due the inception of the Boston Public Library, had become interested in grandfather's work, and had received four manuscript copies of Leavitt's Farmer's Almanac from J. F. Brown, the publisher. He came to Meredith to see the author, stopped at the hotel and told Mr. Young that he wished to be taken to the home of Dudley Leavitt, the astronomer. Mr. Young said that he would cheerfully drive him there himself. After starting, Mr. Vattemare said, "It is Dudley Leavitt, the astronomer I wish to see." "Yes there is where we are going." After passing Mr. Towle's house Mr. V. inquired "Do you understand that it is Dudley Leavitt, the astronomer, I won't to see?" "Certainly, and we shall soon reach his place." When we drove up to the house Mr. V. exclaimed "You must be mistaken. It is Dudley Leavitt, the ASTRONOMER, I came to see; it cannot be that he lives in this little house." "Yes he does, and there he is now coming out of the house." Grandfather had on his "frock" and was just going to the barn. However, he gave his Parisian visitor a hearty greeting, invited him in, and they at once fell into an animated conversation on astronomy and kindred sciences. On taking his leave M. Vattemare grasped grandfather's hand and exclaimed: "Mr. Leavitt, if you will go to Europe with me, you shall live in a palace." Grandfather drew himself up with the dignity which you probably remember and replied: "I thank you sir, I don't wish to go, I have enough, all I want."

Leavitt's almanac has held the same position in New Hampshire that Thomas's almanac has in Massachusetts. The first copy was issued in 1797. The one for 1852 was in press when he died, and he left six in manuscript. Since his death almanacs bearing the same name have been prepared up to the present time by his children and grandchildren. The only illustration which the first copy contained—the only one Mr. Farmer could afford at that time—resembles such rye drawings as a child in the lowest grade of the kindergarten might make. It represented the sun with a rude drawing of a human face covering it, having hair standing on end to represent the sun's rays; eyebrows half-way up the forehead, eyes close together, nose whose outline was bounded by three points, and a small oval for a mouth. This rude figure covered about one-third of the front paper cover.

In many New Hampshire homes this almanac was the only new publication ever seen in those days. Its coming was looked forward to with great eagerness. It was not many days after its reception that all the women and children especially could recite the whole by heart. It is said that in some back towns in New Hampshire the democrats are still voting for Andrew Jackson, so there are hosts of farmers who still swear by Leavitt's Almanac. In all things where mathematics could be brought to bear in unravelling the future, such as the time of sunrise, sunset, moonrise, moon's phases, eclipses, high tides and low tides, planetary conjunctions and oppositions etc. the almanac was a success and an infallible guide. But what shall be said of its weather prophecies strung along down the pages of the monthly calendar in a delightfully ambiguous manner, "fair followed by foul," "foul followed by clearing."

Hail to the glorious 4th.

Daniels has all kinds of fireworks at bottom prices.

Your 4th will be a poor one without Hardy's ice cream.

Mr. Vernon Steele is summering at South Falmouth.

Miss Ethel Homer recently returned from Portland, Me.

Mr. Edgar W. Harrod is confined to his home by sickness.

Miss Mary Law is spending two weeks of her vacation at Ware.

Mrs. J. O. Holt and children are at North Falmouth for the summer.

Mrs. Samuel A. Fowle and family are at West Falmouth for the summer.

Communion service will be observed at the Congregational church on Sunday.

Mr. E. F. Deering, of Whittemore st., left on Friday for Vermont, on a pleasure trip.

The strawberry festival at St. John's Parish house, afforded a delightful evening to all present.

Bethel lodge made a splendid impression on the public last Sunday in its tribute to deceased members.

Mr. Elbridge Sawyer, clerk in Holt's store, leaves next week for a few days' vacation, at Old Orchard beach.

Mrs. George Caulfield, of Avon place, with her little daughter, is spending a week with friends in Portsmouth, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tyner are off for Marblehead Neck today, where they will remain through July and August.

Mrs. Joseph N. Palmer and her son, Albert Palmer, of Newton, were guests on Wednesday, of Mrs. Harry W. Bullard.

The Newtowne Club Ball team will play this afternoon on Lawrence field with the Arlington Boat Club team.

Ida F. Butler Rebekah Lodge, 152, will hold but one meeting a month during July and August, July 3d and August 7th.

The Rev. Mr. Fister preaches his last sermon previous to his vacation on July 16th. The church re-opens on Sunday, Sept. 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Delmont Locke were present in Cambridge on Tuesday evening, at the wedding of Mrs. Locke's niece, Miss Arey.

The case of the Commonwealth against W. B. Jamis will be tried at the October term of the Middlesex County Superior Court.

Don't forget that Mr. Gott, in the line of carriage making, is known most favorably through the country. His orders come from far and near.

Bethel lodge, No. 12, held its semi-annual election Wednesday evening, and elected as their noble grand Edgar W. Harrod, and for vice-grand George E. Holt.

Herbert Yeames, lay reader, conducted the services on Sunday morning at St. John's Episcopal church, in the absence of his father, the Rev. James Yeames.

The school children have begun their vacation in good earnest. While it looks lonely around the school building, our streets are animated by the presence of boys and girls.

Arlington will soon be supplied with the "cup that cheers but which does not inebriate," through the Metropolitan system of water works. The pipes are being laid rapidly.

Miss Ida Law was present at the spread given by the Pi Eta Society, of Harvard college, on class day. Miss Law was the guest of Mr. Charles Williamson, who is well known by Arlington people.

The Arlington Relief Corps spent Friday at Salem willows. The company took their journey in a chartered trolley car to and from the locality distinguished in so many ways.

There was 1.45 inches of water fell in the rain of Wednesday, which means an immense volume to the acre. Will some Arlington school boy cipher out the amount and send the Enterprise the result?

The Rev. S. C. Bushnell met at the commencement of Yale college this week, fifty of his class-mates. What jokes must have been cracked, and what stories told by such a jolly company of collegiate brothers!

We'll venture that Mr. Herbert C. McClure, the architect, has read the author of "The Seven Lamps of Architecture," or otherwise he would not have named the pretty street on which he lives "Brantwood road."

Harry W. Bullard attended the quarterly outing of the Association of Savings Bank Treasurers in Salem, on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The association lunched at the Salem Club, and later had dinner at the Willows.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Norton with family go to day to their summer residence in Maine, alongside Casco bay. Mrs. Norton and her children will remain there for the season, while Mr. Norton will go and come.

Miss Grace Gage, Miss Edith Whittemore and Mrs. W. H. N. Francis, a trio of Sunday school teachers in the First Parish Unitarian church, took their pupils to Crescent beach on Wednesday. Both teachers and pupils enjoyed the day.

Caterer Hardy furnished on Wednesday three wedding spreads in Arlington, two in Cambridge, one in Somerville, and one in Belmont, making seven all told. Caterer Hardy has been an essential and popular factor in the many June weddings which have occurred.

Arrangements have been signed through the office of the Crescent Realty Co., of this town, for the sale of a large lot of land on Bartlett ave., Arlington, also a 11 room house on Hancock st., Wollaston. Full particulars of these sales will appear in late editions of this paper.

Order your salmon early for the 4th of Webber & Son.

A pleasant evening was given on Wednesday in Pleasant Hall by Miss Blanche Devereaux, in honor of her friend Miss Hosea of the South. An enjoyable dance was the order of the hour.

Mr. Henry W. Bradley, formerly of Arlington, was in town on Sunday and received a cordial welcome from his friends. He is looking for a house so as to settle here again, and we assure him he will be twice welcome.

During the storm on Saturday last, the lightning struck an electric light pole on Forest street and shivered it into smithereens. Besides so badly tearing up the road that it had to be immediately repaired.

There are to be fireworks sent off at Spy Pond on the evening of July 4th, under the management of the Arlington Boat Club. There will be a dance in the club house after the fireworks.

On the morning of the 4th the 1st Battalion Cavalry Band will give an open air concert at the corner of Pleasant street and Mass. avenue from 10 to 12 o'clock noon. The Arlington improvement Society is to have the management of the concert.

Mr. Ira A. Holt, principal of the High school has about 3 or 4 weeks of hard work before him in straightening out various matters pertaining to school work before he can take his vacation. Mr. Holt is a conscientious and thorough worker in his principalship.

You will find a full line of first class fire works, Japanese and American crackers, torpedoes, caps and pistols, cracker cannon, cow-bells, tin horns, lanterns, and most anything to celebrate with. All at Boston prices. Smith, Jeweler, 489 Mass. Ave.

Fireworks at Daniels, 606 Mass. ave.

Hose 3 is to keep open house on the 4th for the entertainment of their friends and the town officers. They will have a spread and a good time generally. The following is the committee of arrangements. A. A. Tilden, David Butterick and Charles Whitney.

The Endeavorers of the Middlesex Central Union are to send a delegate to the Detroit Convention in July. A special collection is to be taken at the Congregational Endeavor service Sunday evening, to help pay the expenses; and it is hoped that a generous response will be made.

The Arlington Veteran Firemen Association voted at its meeting on Wednesday evening, to have a play-out on the afternoon of the 4th, after which the members will return to their Hall, where they will entertain their friends. The committee of arrangements consist of the Board of Directors, W. W. Pierce, Mr. Haskell, Thomas Hogan, R. W. LeBaron and A. A. Tilden.

Judge Joshua Eric Dodge of Madison, Wisconsin, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua G. Dodge at their home on Russell street. Mr. and Mrs. Dodge with their daughter and the Judge are to leave this Saturday for Osterville, to visit for a few weeks with Mrs. William Cumiston, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robinson with their daughter, left on Friday for Concord, Mass., where they will remain for a week or more, after which they go to New Hampshire for the summer. Mr. Robinson has given up the Locke house on Academy st. He and his family are to board for the coming year in Arlington after their return from their summer vacation.

Mrs. Benjamin Guckenberger, of the Birmingham, Ala., Conservatory of Music (formerly Miss Margaret Gerry, of Arlington), will be the soloist at the First Parish (Unitarian) church, at the morning service next Sunday, and will sing the following: "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," Buck; "What are These that are Arrayed in White Garments," Brown; and Kipling's "Recessional," by De Koven.

A pleasant interview with the clerk of Robins Spring Hotel, Mr. J. E. Morton, on Wednesday morning, gave us the promising fact that the hotel has now sixty-five guests, and more are coming. Every room will be taken, and more will be wanted. We have heard it hinted that the Atwood Brothers might build, in the near future, another house on the same site, with 200 rooms. The Robins Spring Hotel is delightfully situated, and its rooms are furnished with all that is most modern.

Hardy's strawberry and raspberry ice cream is made from the natural fruit. Try it.

Messrs Frank Russell, F. J. Millett, Paul Gove, and K. C. Hemeon, went on the century run to Newburyport from the Boston Public Library last Sunday in the pouring rain. Russell and Hemeon made the run in 6 h 5 m, while Millett and Gove's time was 7 h 30 m. On their return to Arlington they were bedecked with mud. Caterer N. J. Hardy took a snap shot picture of Russell and Hemeon, and it will no doubt be an interesting picture. Paul Gove made a plucky run, he having a sprained wrist and knee.

Mr. James Underwood, the popular and genial manager of the Moseley bicycle agency in Fowle's Block, has had a very successful season thus far in the sale of wheels and cycle sundries. This agency has disposed of a large number of wheels, and their repair department has been so rushed with orders that it has necessitated running nights. All this has been accomplished through Mr. Underwood's method of square dealing with customers and the pleasant and affable way in which he has met and dealt with them. Mr. Moseley could not find a better manager if he tried.

Buy your firecrackers and fireworks at Daniels' store, 606 Mass. avenue.

The Crescent Realty Co. have sold the following properties: a large, 3 apartment house, 29 Alpine st., Roxbury, valued at $10,000, to Esther B. Lane of Boston, for investment; a 9 room house and 11000 ft. of land, 23 Claremont ave., Arlington Heights, for A. A. Warren; the beautiful estate owned by the heirs of Caroline A. Souther, corner Brooks and Grove sts., Winchester, comprising a large mansion house and one acre of land, assessed for $8500, purchased by Mary E. Studley, of Winchester, for investment. Also a 7 room house and 4500 ft. of land, on Proctor ave., Revere, for $3500, to E. D. Flagg of Boston.

Roland Gage Hopkins, who graduated from Harvard this week, entertained on class day at a spread, the following from Arlington: Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Foster, the Misses Taft, the Misses Devereaux, Mrs. Helen H. Doliver, Mrs. W. A. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Rice, Mrs. W. A. Hardy, Mrs. G. S. Cushman, Miss Fitzpatrick, Miss Elizabeth Robbins, Mr. Frank Bott, Miss Alberta Bott and the Misses Bradley and others.

Harvard gloriously won in the boat race with Yale on Thursday, so that the "crimson" has become the popular color. The whole story in a nutshell, is simply this—Harvard made a clean sweep. The day was perfect, and the harbor of New London never presented a more brilliant scene than on Thursday afternoon. The ladies present, with their favorite colors, added much to the picture.

The Rev. S. C. Bushnell, Roland Hopkins and Harry W. Bullard, all of Arlington, witnessed the race.

On Thursday afternoon the Universalist Y. P. C. U., went to Nantasket for an outing. The committee of arrangements were the following: Mrs. Wadleigh, Miss Kimball, Miss Higgins and Mr. J. O. Holt. Among those of the party were the Rev. Mr. Fister, Mr. J. O. Holt, Mrs. Wadleigh, Miss Kimball, Miss Higgins, Mr. O. B. Marston, Mr. L. K. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Smith, Mr. Wadleigh, Miss Sunergren, Mrs. Hawkins, Miss Myra Pierce, Miss Mable Cutter, Miss Jennie Frost, Miss Nellie Root, Miss Edith Fowle, Dr. A. W. Green and father, Miss Bitzer and Mrs. Martha Durgin and daughter. Amusements of various kinds were enjoyed, after which lunch was served on the Rocks by the Atlantic House.

By the caving in of a portion or the trench for the Metropolitan water works on Friday, an Italian employe by the name of Tommaso di Nuncio, was literally buried up to the shoulders, at a point opposite the Universalist church. The Italian was extricated and brought to police headquarters. Dr. Allen was called when he found the collar bone broken. The sufferer was sent to the Massachusetts Hospital.

Russell & Teele have salmon for the 4th.

It is expected that the ordinance of Baptism will be administered at the Baptist church, on Sunday morning. This is the last Sunday previous to the pastor's vacation. Pastor Watson has decided to take the month of July, so that there may be at least one minister in Arlington during the month of August. President A. C. Osborne, D. D., of Benedict College, S. C., will officiate July 9th. The other vacation supplies will be announced later.

Next Thursday July 6th, the Mutual Helpers begin the work of their flower mission in Arlington. All who can aid in this work by contributions of flowers, are requested to send them to the Town Hall every Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock, where they will be carefully packed and sent to Boston, for distribution among the sick and shut-in. The calls upon this organization for flowers increase every year, and the supervisor informs us that he seldom has enough to supply them all. A bunch of flowers may not seem of much account to us, who see them every day, but if our friends could go with the "Helpers" and see the pleasure they give to those who receive them, we are sure the Arlington basket would be full every Thursday morning. There is also a receiving pan in the Union Station opposite track 18, in which those going to Boston on the morning trains may leave flowers, which will be collected daily at ten o'clock.

When woman shall have learned that there is an art in dressing "the female form divine," then will she leave not a little to the imagination. For instance, we have not infrequently seen where the short sleeve has revealed an arm of awkward and unseemly proportion, with a complexion of uncertain tint, which, had it been properly covered, might have readily been imagined to have been turned in Nature's most exquisite mould. We have seen where the décolleté style of dress has revealed a neck which could in no way serve the artist. Why will not you women, the fairest portion of creation, be so sensible in every instance, as to allow us men to somewhat picture to ourselves the form which goes to make up a queenly figure? Don't tell us of your physical imperfections, if you have them, by being the slave of an extreme fashion. That woman is the most tastefully attired, whose entire figure is considered as a whole.

Have your orders in early for ice cream at Hardy's.

CRESCENT HILL CLUB NOTES.

The Crescent Hill Club proposes to celebrate the 4th on a large scale, the programme as arranged by the committee in charge, will be of the continuous performance" variety, beginning at 9.30 a. m., and ending at 10.30 p. m. The committee having the celebration in charge have worked hard, and it is expected that Crescent Hill will witness a celebration long to be remembered. The committee consists of C. H. Jukes, J. T. Lusk, H. K. Brown, C. H. Bartlett and H. A. Lewis, and the following programme of events have been arranged:

9.30 a. m.—Base ball game between married men and single men of the club, Pennary field.

2 p. m.—Bicycle race for members, 1 mile. Entries to be sent to C. H. Kinney.

2.30 p. m.—Tug-of-war between married men and single men.

3 p. m.—Potato race, for members' sons, 1 to 14 years.

5 to 7 p. m.—Light refreshments will be served in the club house.

7.30 p. m.—Band concert by the Lexington brass band, on club house piazza; fire works on club grounds.

Entries will close Monday July 3, at 8 a. m. and must be sent to H. A. Lewis, secretary of committee.

Don't forget to have Hardy's delicious raspberry ice cream on your table for dessert the fourth.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS.

Miss Carrie Nourse is spending a few weeks at North Scituate.

Baptist prayer meeting was held at the house of Mrs. Baxter, on Friday evening.

Mrs. Streeter and family are now well settled in their new home on Claremont avenue.

Miss Mary Nourse and Miss Rollins, of Westminster ave., are now occupying their summer cottage at North Scituate.

Mrs. Frazer and two daughters, of Lowell place, leave today (Saturday) for Nova Scotia, to spend the summer with family friends.

Miss Mamie Hadley, of Westminster ave., a teacher in Athol, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hadley.

The house of Mr. W. S. Morris, on Mass. ave., is nearing completion. It is 43x29, 3 stories in height, has 3 bath rooms and is to accommodate three families.

On Sunday afternoon the Rev. Mr. Gow, of Somerville, will preach at 3 o'clock p. m., in Crescent Hall. Mr. Lorimer, at 2 o'clock, will give an illustrated talk to the children of the Sunday school.

The Sunshine Club met on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. B. C. Haskell, on Claremont ave.

We are sure that Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jernegan get more pleasure riding after their 2.40 steed, in one of the most comfortable of carriages, than does the wheelman in propelling his bicycle, even if there is pretty girl in front of him. It is seldom that Mr. and Mrs. Jernegan miss their evening on the road.

We saw, the other morning, five Mauser cartridges, the same as shot from the Mauser rifle, which would prove a good deal deadly to the man hit. These cartridges were taken from the Maria The resa just as she was sinking.

Alexander Beaton is the contractor and builder of the Schenck house on Appleton street. Mr. Schenck's residence, now well under way, is three and a half stories in height, with basement. It is 46x28, and has 12 rooms and bath. It is modern in its plan, and up to date in every particular. Mr. Beaton stands at the head of the list in his line of work. He has just completed a house for Mr. E. A. Snow, and one for Mr. C. A. Cushing. Mr. Beaton is never out of work. See his ad. in this issue. Address him at 79 Hibbert street.

The stone work of Mr. Schenck's house is in charge of Mr. Patrick Flynn, of East Lexington. This includes the foundation, the piazza piers and the chimneys. Mr. Flynn understands all about his department of labor, so that his advice and help are in demand on all sides.

There will be no meeting of the Sunshine Club next week. The week following, the club will meet with Mrs. Alexander Livingstone.

We have now running to the Heights, 20 new cars on the electric road, with a seating capacity of 60 each; an improvement which the public will appreciate.

The four block tenement of Mr. C. L. Church, 1287-89 Mass. avenue, is well under way. Mr. W. G. Kimball, the contractor and builder, understands what he is about all the while, so there is nothing in the building line which is modern, that he lets slip. The tenement he is now building has all the latest conveniences. See Mr. Kimball's ad. in this issue. His address is 1003 Mass. ave.

We had a pleasant interview on Thursday morning, with Mr. A. W. Lorimer, pastor of the Arlington Heights Baptist church. Mr. Lorimer is spending the summer months with his people, having his study in the house of Mr. Kimball Farmer. Mr. Lorimer is a graduate of Colby College, Waterville, Me., and is now entering upon his senior year in Newton Theological seminary. He is much interested in and encouraged with his work in the Baptist church. The new church edifice is expected to be ready for occupancy before the winter months.

It was on Friday morning, with atmospheric conditions absolutely perfect, that we sat for a half hour in the cupola of the sanitarium. In an easy, comfortable chair with a far reaching glass in hand, we took in a circle the diameter of which is at least a hundred miles. Just imagine, if you can, the magnificent and inspiring outlook! To the west that long chain of mountains, of which we have before written, seemed more than ready in the clear atmosphere of Friday, to meet you at least half way. Those grand old sentinels of the Granite state never seemed more inviting than they did four stories above the tip of Arlington Heights. And then to the east came Boston with her family of smaller cities with the blue waters of the ocean a little beyond. What a marvelous sight! Who can describe it? The vision of John on the Isle of Patmos, finds its full realization from the cupola of the Arlington Heights Sanitarium.

The Park ave. Cong'l Sunday school, which was to have had its annual picnic on Thursday of this week, will enjoy it on Thursday of next week.

On the 30th inst., Friday, at the home of the bride's father, Alexander Taylor, of Sullivan, Maine, Dr. Arthur Hallam Ring of the Sanitarium, and Dr. L. Barbara Taylor were made husband and wife. Mrs. Ring, the newly made bride, is a graduate of Boston University, and a lady of rare culture. After a short wedding trip Dr. and Mrs. Ring will return to the Sanitarium, where they will reside.

Mr. S. A. Snow and family, and Mr. C. A. Snow and family are at Nantucket, where they will remain for the greater part of the summer.

Several new members will be admitted to the Park ave. Cong'l church on Sunday morning, at the communion service.

Christian Endeavor meeting at 6.30 p. m., in connection with which there will be preaching by the pastor, Dr. Stembbridge.

Miss Sarah Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson of Appleton st., graduated last week at the Salem Normal school, with an enviable standing in her class.

Mrs. Learned and daughter have returned from Dorchester, where they have been residing for the past year, and are now living in their old home on Claremont ave.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Parsons of Milton, have been guests during the present week, of Mr. C. T. Parsons on Claremont ave.

Mrs. Warren, who has recently sold her house on Claremont ave., to Mrs. Streeter, has moved to Winchester.

It is now reported that a cable road will soon find its way to the tip of Arlington Heights.

Miss Springer entertained at her home on Claremont ave., the M. M. M. Club, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Dean will supply you with fireworks for the 4th.

A double tenement house is being erected on Hillside ave., by Miss Louise Nicholson.

Belmont.

Dr. Horace B. Frost, who was injured some months ago by being thrown from a horse, is on his feet again, though he is yet assisted by a cane.

Mr. and Mrs. Loring Underwood are to leave next week for Paris, where they will remain for a year. During their stay in the gay capital, Mr. Loring is to study landscape gardening of a celebrated French artist.

W. L. Chenery, with the Savings Bank Treasurers of the State, both luncheon and dined at the Salem Club, and at the Salem Willows, on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Chenery well knows what a good dinner means. Our townsman was one of the jolliest of the party.

On Monday evening a class of five graduated from our High school. The exercises which took place in the Town hall, called out an audience of our best citizens. The following are the names of the graduates: Charles Frederic Barrett, Isabel Loretto Bresnan, Winifred May Bermingham Burke, Marguerite Stone King and Catherine Annie Reed. One of the most interesting and pleasing features of the evening was the musical part of the entertainment under the direction of Miss Blanche E. Heard. Miss Heard not only understands her work, but she is fortunately possessed of that spirit of enthusiasm which begets in her pupils a love for the instruction she gives in music. Belmont and Arlington are both equally fortunate in having a lady of such pleasing address and of so much culture in her professional department of labor, as is Miss Heard. The hall was tastefully decorated, and the several members of the class well rendered their parts. Horne's Orchestra added to the occasion.

The finale of the exercises was an enjoyable dance to the music of Horne's orchestra.

We met Mr. Thomas L. Creeley the other day, ex-chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and had with him a pleasant interview of a few moments. Mr. Creeley has a level head, and loves to see things move, and what is more, he is always ready to put his shoulder to the wheel and help move them. Give us the man who makes the iron hot by striking.

Mr. Gilcreas, our village druggist, is expected to return home soon after the 4th. Everyone here has missed him during his absence of several months. We are glad to learn that Mr. Gilcreas is much improved in health.

Belmont is one of those few localities where one can see little or no difference between the vacation time, and when the town is at its best in all the ceaseless activities of life. Belmont is a delightful place of residence, but she surely needs in a live business way to somehow supply her self with a new stock of vim and push. The Enterprise is working that such an acquisition may somehow find its way into the very heart and centre of its life. Although we are a part and parcel of Arlington and although the Enterprise is published in that live, pushing town, still we are part and parcel of Belmont as well. Belmont has no interests material or immaterial, in which we shall not take a hand. We shall fail at no time to have a word to say of her churches, her schools, her roads, her public enterprises whatever they may be. We shall commend when commendation is deserved, and criticize when criticism is the proper thing to do. The point we make is this; we are a part of Belmont, and we shall not hesitate to advise, encourage, and sharply criticize just as the situation demands. The that she should be far reaching in every laudable work. Just think for a moment how that the glorious 4th is right upon us, and yet no movement made upon the part of any of our citizens to celebrate. Have we forgotten what the 4th of July means, or has it become so dead a letter to us, that we take the day only for a meaningless rest? There should have been arrangements made weeks ago for the proper observance of this National holiday, and especially so this year following as it does the successful results of the war with Spain. What we need to do is "to get up and dust," as the boys put it. But more of this at another time. Suffice it to say at this writing that it is not expected that even a fire cracker will be sent off in Belmont on the "Glorious fourth."

Dudley Leavitt and His Almanac.

"look out about this time for high winds," etc? What can be said except that it was a species of clairvoyance, mind transference, psychological conca, tination, star-reading or witchcraft? For his weather prognostications were not based on any recognized scientific principles. Like all seers he sometimes "hit it" wonderfully well, for example his last year's almanac contained a copious amount of rain sprinkled through the pages of the summer months, but the prophecies for this year thus far seem to be quite off. Here are the predictions for the months of May and June of the present year: "May opens under the rule of Uranus, the Sun, Mars and Mercury, cloud-making aspects. It will be a fine month for vegetation. Considerable wet and much high winds. Not so many Sunnydays as one could wish." "Configuration this month (June)" in the solar system family indicate a fluctuating atmosphere; much high winds sudden showers, sudden gleams of sunshine, and a fine month to bring vegetables to perfection." Some wisecracks among the farmers who have a thousand signs and omens of their own and who abound in weather proverbs in prose and verse, and to whom every peak of the White Mountains has its characteristics, moods and omens which "never fail" to foretell the weather of to-morrow, are disposed to read the almanac, as it were, upside down. For example a certain farmer was asked one morning what the weather was going to be in the afternoon. "Showery" he replied, "its sartin to be showery." Sure enough it proved to be showery. Asked by what sign he prophesied so correctly the weather, he replied "because old Leavitt in his almanac said it was going to be clear." The weather predictions are still printed, in memory of old times and as a sort of a compendium of rustic wisdom, though the Weather Bureau has entirely robbed the Farmers' Almanac of whatever authority it ever possessed.

READ IT!

In his annual address to the graduating class of Dartmouth College President Tucker said:

"The journalist presents, interprets and applies the current fact in its bearing upon the well-being and progress of society. I protest against the theory that the journalist is merely a purveyor of news. I do not accept the idealized statement of Lord Rosebury who would eliminate the editorial page from the newspaper. When the journalist has the truth of the fact in his possession and has given it to us, his professional work has just begun. He is to interpret and apply the current fact. He is to use it, according to his insight, for the development of public sentiment. The professional value of journalism lies in opinions as well as in facts. A newspaper must have a policy if it would satisfy the professional demands upon journalism. Newspapers in general do have a policy. The chief difference between them is that some make the news work the policy, if necessary fit the policy; while others, presenting the accessible or ascertainable fact, come out into the open field of argument and discussion to enforce its teachings. The journal of opinions—fair, consistent, urgent opinions—is still the journal of influence. Notwithstanding Lord Rosebury's sneer at the 'leading article,' a London journal which has had more influence than all other foreign issues, is a journal without a scrap of news—the London Spectator. This paper has been quoted far and wide over the land, and through its serious treatment of our new duties to civilization, its ardent appeal to national pride, its generous recognition of our future place in the Anglo-Saxon supremacy, it has built up a powerful sentiment around these ideas. The sentiment I believe to be more English than American, more consistent with the genius of the British empire than with that of the American republic, but of its existence and extent there can be no more doubt than of the ability and efficiency of this contributing cause."

We gladly publish the above from so able a thinker as is President Tucker of Dartmouth, and particularly so as what he says is in such perfect keeping with what we always have insisted upon in our journalistic work. That newspaper which has no well conducted editorial page, falls short, at least in our estimation, of its high calling. Our readers, we are sure, recognize the fact that there is no issue of the Enterprise in which we do not come out into the "open field," as President Tucker puts it, and make the attempt at least, to interpret and enforce our teachings. The Enterprise does have an editorial page, and at the same time we keep abreast with the news. Read the Enterprise.

The Funny Bone.

A man who fractured his funny bone concludes that it is not a funny matter. He said: "The displacement of the olecranon is accompanied by disablement of the whole arm for a long while. Webster describes the point as follows: 'The large process at the proximal end of the ulna which projects behind the articulation with the humerus and forms the bony prominence of the elbow.' I have it with me. I fell on the ice in 1873 and broke off my left funny bone. It hurt, but I did not know what had happened for months, and then Dr. Henry Fish of Fargo told me. It was too late to do anything then except exercise to bring my muscles into condition."

"A new development set in then, and the lower part of my forearm became flat, while the upper muscles developed. At present I can pull or lift as much with that arm as I could at any time, but I cannot strike or push with it and cannot exert downward pressure with it at all, unless I hold my arm rigid and put the weight of my body upon it. I can scarcely hold a sheet of paper upon my desk, and for fully 12 months I could not use my left arm at all. Perhaps it was because I did not have surgical attention soon enough. Recently I had a radiograph made, and the fragment of bone was clearly shown lying loosely in the joint. After the fracture two splinters protruded from the skin and were removed."

She Wanted to Know.

Of women who wear black some women always have an air of recent bereavement which misleads the ordinary mind. At a railway station in this state not long ago a tall woman robed in deep black, accompanied by a young woman in colored garb, sat waiting for a train. The station matron hovered in the vicinity, evidently with something on her mind, and finally beckoned to the young woman, who went to see what was wanted.

"Has she got a corpse with her?" the station matron asked.

"Corpse?" the young woman exclaimed, looking over her shoulder in ghastly fright. "Who's got a corpse with her? What do you mean?"

"Don't be scared, lady," the matron exclaimed. "Most of 'em that travels in deep mournin has corpses on the train. I just wanted to know if your lady had a corpse with her."

"Goodness, no!" said the young woman. "Her husband's been dead 50 years. You ought to be ashamed to shock people that way. Don't you ever treat me that way again."

The station matron looked disappointed, and the young woman went back and sat down without even feeling at liberty to tell the lady in black what had happened. — Indianapolis Journal.

Even Though He Hated Lawyers.

President Dreher of Roanoke college tells this story of the late Edward Austin of Boston: "Meeting President Eliot of Harvard some years ago, he said, with a familiarity warranted by a life-long acquaintance: 'Stop, Charles. What is the next building you want at Cambridge?'

"President Eliot replied, 'The building we most need now is a new building for the law school.'

"Oh," said Mr. Austin, 'I hate lawyers! But what do you suppose such a building would cost?'

"The president thought a moment and replied: 'It would depend on the material used. An adequate building of brick could be built for from $60,000 to $70,000.'

"Are you sure," asked Mr. Austin, 'that $100,000 would be enough to provide a thoroughly good building?'

"Yes," replied the president.

"I'm your man," said Mr. Austin."

Tomatoes and Cancer.

A few years ago an eminent London physician, on my mentioning to him tomatoes as an article of diet for myself, said, "Why do you eat tomatoes?" I said, "Why not?" He said: "Well, I think that there are grave reasons for thinking it possible that eating tomatoes increases, if it does not produce, the liability to cancer. I do not say positively that it does so."

It strikes a layman as a fact that the consumption of tomatoes has increased as much in England of late years as has cancer. — Fall Mall Gazette.

White Lies.

Johnny—Pa, Mr. Brownlow said that for obvious reasons he should be unable to be at the meeting at the schoolhouse tonight. What does he mean by "obvious" reasons?

Father—Why, my son, when a man has any reasons that he can't think of or has reasons that he does not care to name he says his reasons are obvious. — Boston Transcript.

Sporting Spirit.

Grogan—Billy has got the true sporting spirit in him.

Kilkey—What's the matter with Billy, now?

Grogan—He ran against an open door and blacked his eye, and he tells everybody he got the black eye in a fight. — Boston Transcript.

Ventured No Opinion.

"What's the matter with you?" asked the friend.

"I haven't the least idea," answered the very cynical invalid. "The surgeons are going to operate for appendicitis." — Washington Star.

No More Credit.

Mrs. Spendall—You look worried. Is it because you are so deeply in debt? Mr. Spendall (gloomily)—No. It's because I can't get any deeper. — New York Weekly.

That's All.

Bill—Did you ever shoot at clay pigeons?

Gill—Oh, yes, I've shot at them. — Yonkers Statesman.
